Employees of the Oliver power house while cleaning out the dam gates Wednesday morning discovered the body of Anthony Marbeiter, 42 years old, 231 1/2 Columbia av., who disappeared from his home on Saturday, Oct. 23. That Marbeiter committed suicide is almost certain, according to relatives and authorities.

It was reported to the police on the day that Marbeiter disappeared that a man had been seen to jump into the river at Sample st. ## SOCIETY'S TROUBLES ARE AIRED IN COURT

Two Factions in Church Society Split. Question as to Payment of Claim.

Another aftermath of the trouble occurring with the installation of Fr. Stanislaus Gruza as pastor of St. Stanislaus parish in North Bend, 1915, appeared Wednesday when the case of Helen Woltman vs. Jan III, Building and Loan Co. was begun. Through an interpleader the building and loan company was allowed to pay the money without amounting to $600 into the court.

The case deals with the disruption of the Holy Rosary society during November, 1914, when one faction withdrew and formed a separate organization. The Holy Rosary maintains a sick benefit fund.

Helen Woltman, secretary of the one faction, charges that the money in the loan company should be paid to her. The other faction charges the same things. Both organizations sought to withdraw the money from the loan company, whereupon the institution filed its interpleader relieving itself of liability.

Gertrude Smiegelski, president of the "original" organization, which withdrew from Witcki hall, where the meetings were held to the school building where they now hold meetings, was on the witness stand Wednesday morning. Frances Orzydzyn is named in the complaint as treasurer of the "new" organization.

The court room began to fill with interested parties shortly before the trial of the case was begun. Seventy-five women either spectators or interested parties in the action were present. The cause is being heard before a jury.

Joseph Wypysinski and Henry A. Stels represent the "original" faction, while George Kurtz is appearing for Helen Woltman, treasurer of the "new" organization, and Atty. Greszcz is counsel for the banking institution.

BORROWING THE CAUSE

Two Women Arraigned in City Court Are Dismissed.

Borrowing of groceries was given as the beginning of a feud between Pelagia Sidrick and Katrine Rybaski in city court Wednesday morning when the former appeared to answer a charge of public indecency. Refusal to lend Mrs. Rybaski any more salt and flour, according to Mrs. Sidrick, developed into a backyard quarrel. She denied the charge of public indecency made by Mrs. Rybaski, who said that her neighbor had called her names. The two women have between them 16 children, and feuds have resulted between them, they also proving an important factor in the trouble. Judge Warner committed the women from the court with the warning that unless they ceased to bother each other he would learn who started the difficulty and give her a heavy fine or jail sentence.

DEFEAT SUFFRAGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Late returns from election districts throughout New York state showed that the new constitution and woman suffrage were buried beneath an avalanche of votes. General Electric moved up 2 points to 182 and Central Leather rose a point to 61. Lehigh Valley, Reading and Southern Pacific advanced one-half.
